With Auto License Generator for Project, you can: Generate license keys for multiple clients Auto generate and manage application licenses by creating and editing licenses Simple license management and auto activation of keys Create, edit and manage licenses for multiple clients, licensing levels and users Generate and update license keys for a range of products by using the integrated licensing manager License4J Business License Server is a web-based application that facilitates the process of application licensing, including the management of application licenses, activation and deactivation of licensing keys, as well as the generation of license keys, validation requests and multiple client management. It is based on a simple database storage and the web, which allows you to share your license information with clients and collaborators easily. Licensing options

License4J Business License Server offers two types of licensing options: commercial licenses and personal licenses. Commercial licenses are associated with subscriptions that can be extended or changed, including the number of users. Personal licenses are based on a license key, which is tied to a license key file, which can be given to a client or a customer. Note: Business license is available only in a commercial edition Personal license is available only in a personal edition Manage licenses for multiple clients You can manage licenses for multiple clients by dividing your license key file into license key files that each include the corresponding license. You can also assign license keys to clients or customers on a per project basis, in addition to a set of requirements and specifications that are set for each project. License keys and license key files can be created and managed through the web, and the license key generation process can be configured to include a time limit that cannot be exceeded. License keys for each user You can create one license key for each user, and each license key must be linked to a unique license key file. To define a user, select one of the following options: Sets the user name and description Sets the user name and a description of the user Groups the user based on company, customer or project Groups

It can generate license keys on demand, and it supports license key activation and reactivation. With this Blogging Club, I am hoping to bring you some amazing, life-changing tips for blogging. To know more about this, click on the link provided below: In our first post, I am here with today's tutorial on How to Retain and Convert an Email Leads on Facebook. Facebook is the world's biggest social networking site and with more than 800 million users, it is no surprise that businesses are taking advantage of this by getting their Facebook Page to be liked. Facebook is a fantastic tool for reaching your customers and it's a great way of getting new business. Most businesses have a Facebook fan page and this allows them to showcase all the great things that they do, and in turn, attract potential customers. One of the most valuable things about Facebook is that it is a user generated environment. This means that the content that a person creates and shares with others is what is displayed on their Facebook Page. You can add your website to your Page and the people will be able to easily click through to your site for more information. Your content needs to be concise, relevant, interesting and offer something that the person will want to share. Therefore, the first step to converting your Facebook fan page to an email list is to ensure that you're actively sharing great content. You need to make sure you add value to the people who are interacting with you. Here are some tips: Ensure that you're actively sharing new and exciting things. People will engage with you if you have content that they want to see. Make sure that your content is optimised for social media (eg videos, images, posts). Add value to your content. You can share your Facebook Page news by using the tools found within the social networking site. You can use a tool such as like this: Which allows you to upload a feed from your Facebook page. Then you can get the feed to tweet automatically. This will then put that information in their news feed and people will start engaging with you. This also works for video. The social networking site allows you to record and upload videos directly to your Facebook Page and they will then appear in the news feed. Once you've uploaded your feed, you can get it to tweet automatically. Then, it will go to your feed and show in people's news feeds. Another great way to start getting your Facebook Page to be liked is to have a Facebook promotion. This will allow you to target your specific market and, in return,
