Q: Why is my UIButton not displaying correctly when part of a UIView I have a XIB file with the following UI: I added a Button to this UI and my resulting view in Interface Builder looks like this: However when I run my app on my iPhone, I get this: What is going on? A: the button goes behind the view. Either put a clear background color for the view or move the button down below the view so that it is visible. Q: PHP post variable inconsistent in MAMP So I have a post variable that I am sending to my php script. The post variable is stored in a session. Now I have found that when I test it on my server (Windows/IIS) there is not issue. When I switch to MAMP on my mac (OSX/PHP 5.3.12) it doesn't work. I looked into this issue and have determined that it has to do with my web server. I was told that i do not need to write an encoder for MAMP. So here is my PHP code: if (isset($_POST['submit'])) { $_SESSION['message'] = $_POST['message']; die("Message:". $_SESSION['message']); } When I use Chrome and submit the form it shows me the variable as expected. Then I refresh it and nothing is there. I have already tried removing the die statement, then it shows me the variable after refresh. I also tried adding an echo statement before the die statement, then it shows me an empty result. I added the die statement as a test and it does show me the message in Chrome, but nothing is showing when I do it with PHP. So is the issue MAMP? Is there a setting for MAMP that I need to change? Also when I use $_SESSION['message'] = $_GET['message']; if I go to the url of my page it shows me the message that was passed in a GET. EDIT:
