The problem is that the Room class appears to have a List within it that stores an unknown number of custom objects. I've written my script and it works, but there are some major issues with it. It seems to fill the room list with a certain number of dummy items (at least 10) and I can't figure out how to get it to stop. Also it fills the room list with duplicates of the same object. I've been trying to figure out how to filter through the list, but I am just not good enough at python to figure it out. Below is the script I am working with. class Room: def __init__(self, id, name): self.id = id self.name = name self.roomItems = [] def addItem(self, item): self.roomItems.append(item) def getRoomItems(self): return self.roomItems class CustomObject: def __init__(self, name, price):
