Home Run Hotel CCRB Underwriter. The double-diagram course is only available to teachers. All content is available online through the Internet through I Hope International. That said, I can guarantee you that a school administrator or prospective teacher will never accept my child at your school.Q: What object? I wonder what object my son is referencing when he questions me with "What object?". I know I am not a mathematician but I can add and subtract numbers and solve for X, so I thought he was asking what object was a "number", but I have a feeling I am misunderstanding something about mathematics. A: As a math person, I can't explain it better than the Wikipedia definition of the word: In mathematics, the term object refers to a "thing" or "entity" and especially to mathematical entities such as numbers, functions, or sets. As a person not a mathematician, I just want to clarify. I don't want to detract from the answer you're getting, but the core of your question is actually the line "What are you talking about?" If you ask what something is, you're basically asking what a thing is, and it will be answered based on your own, personal concept of the thing. If it makes any sense, your son might even answer from a different perspective. For instance, if a person says "What is time?", the person can either be asking about the concept of time or the actual object. Q: How to extract a specific value from a string that contains many values that looks like this: "letters-placeholder1" This is a string that holds a value. I want to extract the number 5.3 from this string. string test = "first_value-5.3-second_value"; I have the parts I need but the value I need is not at the beginning but after the first slash
