How to Choose the Right License for Vijeo Designer Runtime Software

Vijeo Designer is a powerful software tool that allows you to create and edit graphical user interfaces for various industrial devices, such as HMIs, PLCs, and iPCs. Vijeo Designer Runtime is the software component that runs on the target device and executes the application created with Vijeo Designer. Depending on your needs and preferences, you can choose from different types of licenses for Vijeo Designer Runtime. In this article, we will explain the main differences and advantages of each license type, and how to obtain and activate them.

Limited Edition License

A Limited Edition License is a free license that allows you to use Vijeo Designer Runtime with full functionality, but only for the HMISTO and HMISTU series of HMIs. These are small touch screen devices that are suitable for simple applications. To use this license, you do not need to register or activate anything. You just need to install Vijeo Designer in Limited Edition mode[^3^], and download your application to the HMI device.

Trial License

A Trial License is a temporary license that allows you to use Vijeo Designer Runtime with full functionality and for all types of HMI devices, but only for 21 days from the installation date. This license is ideal for testing and evaluating Vijeo Designer Runtime before purchasing a permanent license. To use this license, you need to install Vijeo Designer in Trial mode[^3^], and download your application to the HMI device. You can also extend the trial period by requesting a new activation code from Schneider Electric.

Permanent License

A Permanent License is a paid license that allows you to use Vijeo Designer Runtime with full functionality and for all types of HMI devices, without any time limit. This license is recommended for production and deployment of your applications. To use this license, you need to purchase a license reference from Schneider Electric, install Vijeo Designer in Full mode[3], and register and activate your license online or offline. There are different license references available for Vijeo Designer Runtime, depending on the type of target device you want to use. For example:
