What is Qawwali?

Qawwali is a form of Sufi devotional music that originated in India and Pakistan in the 13th century. Sufism is a mystical branch of Islam that emphasizes the personal and direct experience of Allah through love, meditation, and poetry. Qawwali is one of the ways that Sufis express their devotion and passion for Allah.

The history and origin of Qawwali

The word Qawwali comes from the Arabic word qaul, which means "utterance" or "statement". Qawwali is based on the teachings and poems of Sufi saints and mystics, such as Rumi, Hafiz, Amir Khusrow, Bulleh Shah, Baba Farid, and Khwaja Moinuddin Chishti. The latter is considered to be the founder of Qawwali, as he introduced it in his shrine in Ajmer, India, in the 13th century. He was also the spiritual master of Nizamuddin Auliya, another prominent Sufi saint who popularized Qawwali in Delhi.

Qawwali was initially performed in Sufi shrines and gatherings, called sama or mehfil-e-sama, where the qawwals would sing praises of Allah and his prophets, especially Muhammad. The purpose of Qawwali was to create a state of ecstasy and trance in the listeners, who would join in the singing, clapping, dancing, and whirling. Qawwali was also a way sorrow, joy, and mysticism.

The famous Qawwals and their contributions

Qawwali has a long and rich history of talented and influential qawwals who have contributed to its development and popularity. Some of the most famous qawwals are:

- Amir Khusrow: He was a 13th-century poet, musician, and scholar who is regarded as the father of Qawwali. He composed many Qawwali songs in Persian, Hindi, and Braj Bhasha, and introduced new musical instruments and styles to Qawwali. He was also the disciple of Nizamuddin Auliya, and his Qawwali songs are still sung at his shrine in Delhi.
- Sabri Brothers: They were a duo of qawwals, Ghulam Farid Sabri and Maqbool Ahmed Sabri, who popularized Qawwali in the 20th century. They performed Qawwali in Pakistan, India, and around the world, and recorded many albums and films. They were known for their powerful and passionate vocals, and their mastery of classical and folk music. Some of their famous Qawwali songs are Bhar Do Jholi Meri, Tajdar-e-Haram, and Balaghal Ula Be Kamalehi.
- Nusrat Fateh Ali Khan: He was a legendary qawwal who is widely considered as the greatest Qawwali singer of all time. He had an extraordinary range and versatility of voice, and he performed Qawwali in various languages and genres. He collaborated with many international artists, such as Peter Gabriel, Eddie Vedder, and Michael Brook, and introduced Qawwali to a global audience. Some of his famous Qawwali songs are Allah Hoo Allah Hoo, Afreen Afreen, and Dum Mast Qalandar.
